Kylo ren says "The Dark side never sleeps." I see Draxius getting ready to extend his lightsaber. I hold my hand on her back. Chapter 2 by Sophia Mathis

Kylo Ren calls for his elite apprentice, Sophia Malakia. She is without a doubt, as strong as or stronger than Kylo Ren himself. And strikingly beautiful as well. Her long blonde hair is streaked with red and black paint is smeared on her cheeks in a traditional pattern associated with the Sith. She wears a tight black body suit with a hooded cape just like Kylo's. Her eyes fierce with determination and pride. She steps to face her master. She asks,

"Yes, Master Ren?"

"Destroy them. Every last one."

"Yes Master." She says with scary smile.

She pulls her lightsaber from her belt and ignites it. The lightsaber is shaped like Kylo's, except her's is as dark as the Dark Side itself. Black and menacing, with a huge Kyber crystal powering it, really makes her and the saber a good pair.

She jumps to attack and kills Draxius with a single slash across the chest. She falls to the ground, killing her instantly. She then pulls Captain Phasma from the ground, levitating her in the air with the Force. She begins to heal her while fighting off Rebel troops. She looks back at Kylo and he nods. Kylo walks over to under Captain Phasma and suddenly she starts to fall. Kylo puts his arms out and catches her and throws her over his shoulder. He then waves his arm in the air and a ship appears out of nowhere. He carries Captain Phasma and sets her inside. By the time Kylo comes back, all the Rebel troops are dead. Sophia deactivates her lightsaber and walks over to Kylo. She asks,

"Did I do well, Master?"

He puts his arm around her and she leans her head on his shoulder as they walk back to the ship. They climb onto the ship and fly back to the 2nd Order Base.

Chapter 3 by

I wake up from being knocked out and I see Draxius laying on the ground dead. I bury here body. I say "WHY!!!" Then I see a man walking toward me. I get my lightsaber out and I say stand back. He says " Rey I've heard lots about you."

I said " who are you." he said "Im Starkiller former apprentice of Darth Vader I am no longer he killed Juno eclipse my associate we were very close." "I am very strong in the force" he says. Thats when the millennium falcon lands right next to me Chewbecca comes out with his crossbow saying " uughghhhgh aarragghuuhw huuguughghg huuguughghg." i say "No I don't need any heavy assistance but you could've been there when my brother attacked me and killed my friend. Starkiller said "REY WE NEED TO GO IMPERIAL SHIPS ARE CLOSING IN." We entered the millennium falcon and we went into hyperspace.

Chapter 4 by Sophia Mathis

Meanwhile back at the 2nd Order Base, Sophia and Kylo are training. Their sabers clash in a spray of sparks and dark flashes of deep red light. They stare into each other's eyes with determination and concentration as they sweep their sabers back and forth to parry the other's attacks. Sophia reaches up with her hand and Force pushes Kylo back. He hits the wall with a loud thud. Kylo stands and lifts her up with the Force and she flies backward and slams into the wall while Kylo grabs her Lightsaber. He walks slowly towards her and says,

"Oh Sophia, so young, beautiful, and powerful, and yet so much still to learn."

Soon he is towering above her with a look in his eye. She looks up at him and meets his eyes. He pulls her up into a tender kiss. When Kylo pulls away, Sophia is sitting there, mesmerised.

"Together, nothing will happen to us." Kylo promises. He sweeps a single strand of Sophia's blonde hair back and tucks it behind her ear.

"Of course, Master."

"Freshen up and meet me

"Yes Master."

Kylo turns away from her and strides quickly out of the training room and down the hall. Sophia stands and shakily walks to the exit. She gathers herself and steps out into the hallway and quickly walks to her room. Once inside, she takes off her training clothes and her cowl and changes into a black tunic with blood red leggings, some black boots and pulls her hair up into a half back bun and ties it with a long red bow. She takes off her face paint, clips her lightsaber onto her belt, and briskly walks to the Knight's Lounge.

For once in her life, Sophia was very nervous and uncertain. She had no clue about what this meeting was about, or what Master Ren wanted from her. As she stepped through the doorway to the Lounge, she saw her Master sitting a chair in front of the fireplace. She stepped over and he patted the chair next to him.

"Sophia, I'm afraid I have something to tell you." He says quietly.

"Anything Master. What is troubling you?"

"Well, I believe I'm in love."

She gasps. "Who?" She demands.

Kylo chuckles quietly. "Sophia don't worry. It is you of course. Even if it wasn't I know you would kill them anyway."

"And I... I also love you."

Silence. They stare into the fire, watching it's tendrils dance in the darkness that surrounds them like an oppressive wraith. Turning to each other, Kylo says,

"I'll never lose you. Never. It will be the death of me."

"Ouch, babe," he growled playfully. "That one stung."

She crouched down, preparing to spring forward. "Then this'll hurt even more."

She was stopped by a voice from the hallways, narrowing her eyes at Ren and his apprentice. "Great. He's here to spoil the fun." She retracted the blades, and holstered it on her belt. The male retracted his blade as well, striding over to her with a sly grin. She glared at him, crossing her arms.

"You two are coming along fine," Ren complemented them, with a nod.

"You're not the one training us," she hissed. "We have more skills than you could dream about. Your apprentice is wasting her time with you instead of Dendren or I."

Chapter 6 by Sophia Mathis

Kylo chuckles darkly. He looks at her with a gleam in his eye and says,

"Dendren is dead. I killed him myself."

"No... no that's impossible, he's much stronger than you... No.. "

He draws his lightsaber and stalks over to her and whispers menacingly into her ear,

"Do not cross me or question my power or authority ever again or it will be that last thing you ever do. Now bow down to me, for you are nothing but a lowly apprentice in the presence of a Master."

She drops to one knee out of fear of the powerful man in front of her.

He walks out of the room without another word.

Little did they know, Sophia was listening just out of sight, masking her presence with the Force.

She slipped out of the training room and sprinted down the hallway and found it in fact Kylo who seemed to be waiting for her.

"Uh, I didn't mean, I was trying."

"Listen to me, Sophia, I do not want to have to punish you, but if that's what this comes to, then I'm afraid I have no choice...."

Chapter 7 by Sophia Mathis

He smiles mischievously.

Sophia stays silent and doesn't look at him.

" Lady Ren, Follow me. NOW! " He says sternly.

Sophia puts her head down and replies,

" Yes Master.. "

Kylo stalks down the hall and Sophia follows with her head hung low. They walk deeper and deeper into the bowels of the base and suddenly Kylo stops in front of an unmarked door. He opens it by using the Force. We step inside and the door shuts, enveloping us in complete dark.

He ignites his Lightsaber and I see his face without his helmet on, bathed in deep red light. He turns away from her and begins to slash up the wall in a fit of rage.

When he's satisfied, he turns back towards her and asks,

"Sophia.... Tell me something, how do you think I became so powerful?"

She opened her mouth but couldn't muster a reply.
